Mr. Bowers explained later that he understood a Whitman indorsement was being voted on, and that, while he was for the District Attorney, he did not think the County Committee should indorse any one, and for that reason asked to be excused from voting.

The question of candidates for Governor did not come up until the close of a three-hour session, which was not over until nearly 8 o'clock. The early part of the meeting was taken up in the discussion of local candidates. The situation was canvassed by Assembly. Senate and Congress districts, and steps were taken to put candidates in the field for the nomination in all cases where no candidates had developed.

There were some disputes as to who should be the organization candidates for some of the offices. In some cases they were settled at the meeting, but in most cases the difference will be left to the enrolled Republicans on primary day.

to the enrolled Republicans on primary day.

There was an important conference at the Hinman headquarters in the Murray Hill Hotel yesterday afternoon. Representative Charles M. Hamilton came on from Washington; Seth G. Heacock made a special trip from Herkimer, and former Governor B. B. Odell was there from Newburgh. Among others present were John B. Rose, Collin H. Woodward, leader of the 23d District; A. Perry Osborn, chairman, and other members of the local Hinman committee. Ogden L. Mills dropped in for a few minutes before the meeting of the county committee.

J. Calvin McKnight, Hinman manager, presided at the conference and outlined the result of the committee's work so far. His reports were said to be most encouraging. It was said that, in upatate districts where the regular organization was opposed to Hinman, a special organization was opposed to Hinman, a special organization was being formed.

Hedges, at a meeting to map out his campaign held at the Hotel Martinique last night, deneunced the polling of the executive committee in the afternoon as unfair and contrary to the spirit of the direct primary law. They read into their minutes a resolution which, it was said, had been introduced at the meeting of the executive committee and turned down.

It was offered by John J. Lyons, of the 31st District, and it averred that the party organization should not favor the fortunes of any one candidate as against another, and that all party headquarters or meeting places maintained by party funds should be open to all candidates for the presentation of their claims. It added that any action that might be taken by the committee, whether by caucus or conference, would be "mere subterfuge, subjecting the party to proper adverse criticism."

Designation for Governor Con-

Albany, Aug. 31.—A petition designating District Attorney Whitman, of New York, as the Republican candidate for Governor was one of the first filed with the Secretary of State. It contained more than 8,000 signatures.

Other petitions included those of James S. McDonough, Democrat, New York for United States Senator; Horace S. Van Voast, Republican, Congressman from the 30th District, and Wellington L. Morris, Republican, Congressman from the 37th District.

The first designating petition nominating a district delegate to the constitutional delegates, in which Barnes was overwhelmingly defeated, was a clear indication that the State Chairman had lost his grip on the organization.

He, in common with many of the other leaders, believes the head of the committee should be an upstate man, but none has been developed for the place. Republicans desire and the good of the party demands a change in the party leadership. Others doubtless held a contrary opinion. In any event, the question is one in which all Republicans are vitally interested and in the settlement of which they should be given full opportunity to record their wishes.

The only way in which this can be brought about is by the frank announcement by Mr. Barnes and the other possible candidates of their willingness or unwillingness to serve should the position be offered them. The Republicans of each Assembly district will then be in a position to require of the candidate for the office of state committeeman a statement of his choice, and should his choice not coincide with the prevailing sentiment in the district to elect some one else in his place.

Koenig Makes Comment.

Koenig Makes Comment.

"I assume that Mr. Barnes means what he says," was the comment of Mr. Koenig on the announcement of the state chairman. "The general opinion is that candidates for public office will now be judged by what they personally stand for in governmental affairs rather than on their attitude on collateral matters.

"The Progressives, who base their entire platform of six hundred words on Barnes and Murphy, might as well tear it up, so far as the Republicans are concerned."

When Job E. Hedges, who is a candidate for nomination for Governor, was asked to comment on the candidacy of Mr. Mills, he replied:

"I assume that Mr. Barnes means with the atmosphere, which a former witness had described, Mr. Price destinates had described, Mr. Price described had described, Mr. Price destinates had described, Mr. Price described had argaining in the stockpards. No buyer withes

Mr. Barnes's letter reads:

Mr. Barnes's letter reads:

Since you have declared your candidacy for membership in the Republican State Committee, which will be elected September 25, and the organization of the new committee. It becomes my duty, therefore, to make clear to you my attitude regarding the clear to you my attitude regarding the chairmanship because it will be impossible for me to render such service after September in January 1911.

This inhibition would not necessarily be controlling for the fall campaign of about a month, were it not that the effort to defeat the Democratic party this year should be clearly defined without the introduction of any irrelevant matter.

The subsequence of the visit of the state committee, and of the state committee, and of the state committee advanced by it, and primarily, a constitutional amendment providing for the recall of judicial decisions which, if adopted, would in effect vittate the American principle of individual liberty, are no longer matters of contentions.

Mr. Barnes's letter reads:

member of the state committee, and others have been put up as candidates from the three Assembly districts in Albany County. This did not affect the chairmanship, however, as it is not necessary for the chairman to be an elected member of the committee.

Accepting the sincerity of purpose of the Progressive party in its antagonism to the misgovernment of the state, that "arty having abandoned its non-Republican principle. I propose to remove from the campaign the only reason which it now asserts for its continued existence, namely, its personal opposition to me.

The re-establishment at Albany of efficient and honest administration is the sole issue. This line should be definitely drawn between the Republican and Democratic parties. The Republican noriinations will be made through the action of 522,900 enrolled Republicans of the state, and I have no doubt the candidates selected by them will be able, conscientious men. I assume that their voice will be influential in the selection of the person who is officially to conduct their campaign.

My dominating purpose is to see the party his friends would not be surprised he were to resign and retire from poli-tics altogether.

My dominating purpose is to see the party successful upon the principles for which it stands, and to permit no one to interject my own personality as a false issue into this great stringsle.

I am thus early advising you of my pur-pose not again to be a member of the com-mittee nor to accept the chairmanahip, were it offered, so that you will have ample op-portunity to address yourself to the selection of my successor, upon whose shoulders must rest a large part of the burdens of the com-ling campaign. Knew of Mills Candidacy.

Chairman Barnes waved aside my attempts to discuss his attitude. "I have written all I care to say," he said, "and I think I know how to use the English language."

He would make no comment on the Mills candidacy, but it was learned that he was aware of it before he made his letter public. His friends say he will take no part in the selection of his successor.

Back of the Mills candidacy are the men who for more than a year have been seeking to remove the Barnes leadership. They sought an up-state candidate, but failed to find a man who would stand for the place.

In Saratoga it was generally understood that Mr. Mills would be an anti-Barnes candidate for State Chairman. He and his friends said the vote on the Barnes resolution to overthrow the state organization who wished to fun for any of the nominations. The petitions of Walter Herrick, of New York, who thinks he wanta to be the candidate for Lieutenant Governor, will be duly filled out.
